VV Puram Police take three into custody

Miscreants waylay car near Vani Vilas Water Works when youth was on his way to pick his father from Railway Station

Mysuru, Apr. 30 (RK&KS)- VV Puram Police have taken three persons into custody on charges of waylaying a 23-year-old youth, kidnapping him and robbing him of his valuables in the wee hours of Sunday.

The youth was on his way to City Railway Station to pick up his father when the incident took place near Vani Vilas Water Works (VVWW), close to the entry point of the Railway Station near CFTRI Gate on KRS road.

The youth, who was abducted and robbed, is Chirag Jain, a resident of Siddarthanagar in city.

At about 2.30 am on Sunday, Chirag's father Ramesh Chand arrived from Rajasthan to City Railway Station. Before the train could arrive at the Station, Ramesh called his son Chirag and asked him to come to the Railway Station entry gate in front of CFTRI and pick him up.

Chirag, who left his house in his Hyundai i10 car (KA-51-P-6075), moved ahead of the Railway Station gate and on realising it, he was taking a U turn near VVWW, when three persons, who came on a scooter, waylaid him and abused him of driving rashly.

When Chirag came out of the car to confront them, one of the accused sat on the driver's seat while the other two pushed Chirag into the front seat of car next to the driver's seat. While one of the accused drove the car, the other two followed the car in their scooter. When the car stopped near Mukthidhama in Vijayanagar 4th Stage, the accused forcibly took two gold chains weighing 38 grams, mobile phone and Rs. 2,000 cash from Chirag.

They then collected the passwords of Chirag's mobile phone and PhonePe account, got Rs. 80,000 transferred to a bank account. They then left Chirag and his car at the spot and sped away on scooter at 5.50 am.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

In Indic philosophy, anand, bliss, is a specific attribute of Brahmn, the ultimate reality, as well as the highest state of existence for the individual self.

In the Upanishads, anand is one of the three essential attributes of Brahmn, along with sat, existence and chit, consciousness. These three aspects of the nature of ultimate reality are often expressed as Sat-Chit-Anand. Bliss is, therefore, the experience of unbound, eternal and unalloyed happiness of the chit, derived from the very experience of existence, that is sat. That is, bliss doesn't necessarily come from a dream life or the life you think you ought to be living. Rather it is an intense state of joy from life, as it is.

The spiritual science of perpetually being in bliss is all about empowering ourselves to celebrate and value life as it is. This seems especially difficult for most of us today when we are constantly afflicted with a sense of unworthiness. We think that we do not deserve anand as we are. We expect that the next set of professional or personal or financial achievements will in some way make us more worthy and more qualified to experience bliss in life. These are the criteria of the ego, not of the spirit, not spirituality.

In the spiritual sciences, bliss is unqualified, unquantified and accessible to everyone by the simple fact of their human existence. That is, you don't need to be anything other than yourself to experience perpetual bliss. And bliss is unquantified, that is, there is no scarcity of anand; you can be as joyous as you want without it affecting the availability of bliss to others. The basic idea is that our own Self is the very nature of bliss. While pleasures are temporary and often lead to attachment and suffering, anand is an enduring, intrinsic state of being that transcends the ups and downs of life.

9-year-old tops in screeching contest

De Panne: The 9-year-old winner of a European seagull imitating contest has an origin story worthy of a Marvel hero after being bitten by a seagull.

Cooper Wallace, aka Seagull Boy, a resident of Derbyshire, England, wore full seagull regalia when he showed off his skills at the European Championship Gull Screeching event in De Panne, Belgium.

Wallace took up the art of gull screeching after being nipped by a seagull during a trip to the beach. "I just wanted to make the noise to remember I got pecked by one. But I like seagulls," he said. The boy said he has a deep respect for seagulls and his imitation is more tribute than mockery.

He scored 92 points out of 100, handily winning the juvenile category and earning the most points of any competitor in any age range at the event.

Stop bringing snakes to hospitals

Queensland: Medical experts in Australia are pleading with snake bite victims to stop bringing the serpents with them to the hospital.

Dr. Adam Michael, Director of emergency medicine at Bundaberg Hospital in Queensland, said a snake bite victim came in with a highly venomous eastern brown snake in a poorly secured plastic container.

"The staff got a fright and the serious consequence of that is it delays time to treatment. We want people to be assessed quickly and having a live snake in slows up the process," he said. Dr. Geoff Isbister, a clinical toxicology researcher at the University of Newcastle, said that the hospital staff were not trained to identify snakes, but can perform tests to determine whether a bite victim needs anti-venom.

Heavy encroachment of Vidyaranyapuram footpaths

Sir,

The entire stretch of footpath on either side of Vidyaranyapuram Main Road, from Bhoothal Pitch to St. Thomas School, is heavily encroached upon by vendors, shopkeepers, chaat sellers and construction materials, among other obstructions. It is concerning that our MLA, T.S. Srivatsa, seems unaware of this situation.

The residential areas of Vidyaranyapuram are among the most neglected in Mysuru. Garbage is scattered at numerous locations, unchecked construction activities are rampant and stormwater drains are frequently clogged. Additionally, the proliferation of footpath vendors and their customers often leads to the disposal of leftover food along the footpaths or in nearby parks, attracting stray animals.

Of particular concern is the presence of a welding shop at the beginning of 19th Cross. The residents of the building housing the welding shop have extended their encroachment onto the footpath by using it to dry clothes and even setting up a permanent kennel for their stray pet. Despite previous complaints, no action has been taken to address this issue.

I urge the MLA to genuinely engage with the concerns of the voters and take necessary action to address these long-standing issues.

Murugha Mutt Seer surrenders before Chitradurga Court

Court remands Seer to judicial custody

Chitradurga, Apr. 30 (Agencies)- Murugha Mutt Seer Shivamurthy Murugha Sharanaru, who is facing charges of sexual exploitation of minor girls, surrendered before a Sessions Court at Chitradurga on Monday and has been remanded to judicial custody.

Murugha Mutt Seer

The Supreme Court had cancelled his bail recently and directed him to surrender before the Court to be taken to judicial custody.

After the surrender, the authorities took the Seer into custody and sent him to the district prison after conducting a medical test.

Seer's lawyer Pratap Jogi said that the Supreme Court had given direction for the Court to complete the inquiry within four months and that the Seer will have to be in prison for a few months.

On Apr. 23, the Supreme Court stayed the order of the Karnataka High Court granting bail to the Seer, contending that it would be appropriate to conduct the questioning of witnesses when the accused Seer is in judicial custody. It also stated that until the inquiry of the victims and their parents is completed, the Seer must be in prison.

The Court order came as Counsel for victims argued that the Seer is highly influential and even as the charge-sheet is submitted, he could influence the witnesses during the trial.

Watering green with voluntary help

Mysuru, Apr. 30 (SBD&BS)- With no respite from summer heat, the trees and plants in public places are going dry, forcing the Forest Department to seek the help of volunteers to keep the green cover intact.

N. Raghavan of Raghulal and Co.,, a popular pharmacy shop of the city who has been doing his mite for the cause of green in the city, has been supplying water through water tankers to water trees and plants. The inevitable situation has aroused, with no hint of rainfall that portends a spectre of severity in the situation if there is no rainfall in at least 15 to 20 days. It has indeed posed a challenge to Forest Department to feed water to saplings which are a year or two old.

Raghavan, who has the credit of planting saplings and protecting them with a tree guard, has been watering them along with those planted by Forest Department on Outer Ring Road (ORR), Rajiv Nagar, Lal Bahadur Shastri Nagar and several other localities.

Forest personnel are in awe of Raghavan for his unflinching love for the nature and say he never hesitates to spend a big sum on the upkeep of green cover.

Deputy Range Forest Officer (DRFO) Prakash said: "We are bound by norms to water a year old plant for six times in a year and three times for two-year-old trees. As we have exhausted the allotted period of watering two-year-old trees, it has become difficult to feed water for the third time. In such situations, Raghavan chips in upon bringing the matter to his notice."

Sex scandal

JD(S) MP Prajwal Revanna suspended from party

HDK announces expulsion of Prajwal from party if found guilty in SIT probe

Bengaluru, Apr. 30 (Agencies)- As the heat over the sex scandal allegedly involving Hassan JD (S) MP Prajwal Revanna intensified, State JD(S) Core Committee President and MLA G.T. Devegowda announced the suspension of Prajwal from the party today.

Prajwal Revanna

The decision to take action against Prajwal, son of MLA and former Minister H.D. Revanna, was ratified during the meeting of Core Committee of the party held in Hubballi this morning.

Prior to the official announcement of the decision, the Core Committee recommended the party's National supremo and former Prime Minister H.D. Deve Gowda to suspend Prajwal from the party.

Addressing the media persons later, Core Committee Chief G.T. Devegowda read out the decision to keep Prajwal under suspension over the sex scandal and extend cooperation to the ongoing probe.

Party State President and former Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy (HDK), who was flanking Devegowda in the press conference, also announced that Prajwal will be permanently expelled from the party if he is found guilty in the Special Investigation Team (SIT) probe, that has taken up the investigation into the high profile case involving the first family of JD(S).

Kumaraswamy lashed out at Chief Minister Siddaramaiah for bringing up the case only to dent the image of our family and defeat BJP-JD(S) alliance in the ensuing Lok Sabha elections.

Taking exception to bringing the name of Prime Minister Narendra Modi in the case, without having any gratitude over how Modi helped Siddaramaiah personally, HDK reminded Siddaramaiah of the unsavoury incident involving his family member in the past.

He also didn't spare his political bête noire and Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar and mounted his verbal attack on him, calling him as a 'Congress Maha Nayaka.'

Congress workers protest

On the flip side, Congress workers led by All India Youth Congress Committee President B.V. Srinivas made a vain bid to lay siege to BJP Office in Malleshwaram, Bengaluru, over the same issue. However, the Police detained the agitators and took them away in a van.

NCW notice to DG and IGP

Meanwhile, National Commission for Women (NCW) has also issued a notice to DG and IGP of Karnataka and has sought a report over the scandal, while Karnataka State Commission for Women has sought a criminal investigation into the case and to take immediate action to stop the obscene videos from going viral.

It may be mentioned that a pen drive containing over 2,700 explicit videos, allegedly involving Prajwal has surfaced, blowing into a major sex scandal involving a politician in the recent days.

Following the scandal, Prajwal has fled the country, giving a perfect ammo for arch rival Congress to step up their attack on BJP and JD(S) alliance particularly in the State.

An influential leader: Yaduveer Wadiyar

Yaduveer, speaking to presspersons recalled that Sreenivasa Prasad, who was Mysuru District Minister, had co-operated with him when he was adopted by the erstwhile Mysore Royal family. Noting that Prasad was an influential leader of Mysuru - Chamarajanagar districts, he said that he had met Prasad at his residence in the run up to the LS polls, during which he encouraged him.

Stating that Prasad was an influential leader in his own rights, he said he prays the almighty to give enough strength to his family members to bear the loss.

Simha turns emotional

MP Prathap Simha said that perhaps Prasad was the only politician who had no jealousy or hatred in politics. Pointing out that Prasad never criticised anybody in the open, Simha turned emotional recalling that Prasad used to advice within the four walls and never insulted anyone publicly.

"I am deeply pained by the demise of Prasad who served Mysuru - Chamarajanagar for five decades. He surely finds place as one of the noble politicians of our times," he said.

Hail! March of Indian Democracy

Revisiting the past in 2024

Among academicians in Mysuru, nay in India, if at all there was a Nehru fan and loyalist, it was Prof. C.D. Narasimhaiah (CDN), Professor in English, Manasagangothri, University of Mysore (1921-2005). He was best known for his literary criticism and bringing out an abridged version of Nehru's magnum opus 'Discovery of India' under the title 'Rediscovery of India.'

For decades, his name was synonymous with the English Department and as a teacher par excellence. In his days he was an iconic figure among the english literary scholars so much so he was much sought after by the foreign Universities where English was taught to give lectures or to participate in seminars.

Why do I remember him now?

There is an accidental reason. Yesterday afternoon a sub-editor was rummaging the editorial files and scrapbooks, like delving into archives, as he was looking for a reference about the ongoing Parliamentary election. All of a sudden, I heard him hallooing at me to draw my attention for a discovery he made.

It was a letter written to me by Prof. C.D. Narasimhaiah in the year 2000 to be one of the speakers at the Nehru symposium on 'Indian Leadership and Indian Destiny' scheduled for Nov. 14 and 15. The participants represented those engaged in a wide range of nation building activities like agriculture, defence, education, science, arts, health industry, creative writing, journalism, etc. Apparently, I came under the journalism slot. So it was that I got an opportunity to submit my paper on the appointed day. By sheer serendipity I could get the copy of the talk I delivered at the symposium.

But for the file copies of the talk and the letter I cannot remember the occasion now. I called the talk as 'The Mystery of Indian Democracy.' Be that as it may, since the 2024 Parliamentary election is going on in phases, let me publish the talk without further ado:

Dhvanyaloka Inter-generation Meet on Current Affairs (DIMCA). I go breathless. First things first. Congratulations on your first anniversary.

Anniversaries are generally celebrated with a bash. I do not know if it follows this meeting. However, I would like to share some of my feelings and thoughts about venturing into something innocuous and enlightening as DIMCA. I learn it is a brain-child of Dr. H.S. Shivanna and few of his friends of the intellectual realm like Prof. CDN and Prof. K.C. Belliappa. May be, it was an idea whose time had come.

And with a place comparable to Arcadia of Athens to hold the meeting willingly offered by CDN, nothing could stop these friends in launching their ship of knowledge and information.

I congratulate them on this occasion. A small wonder. DIMCA has chosen me to be the speaker on their first anniversary.

I don't know if I am the 12th or the 13th speaker here. All the same, having heard so many bright and eloquent ones speak on varied subjects in this very hall, I stand before you with apprehension about my ability to match my predecessors. Of course, I am not a stranger to this place as most of you will know. But each time, I used to be where you are seated now. This is the first time I am put on this podium.

You will agree, being a journalist I am better-off as a pen-pusher, I am more a wordsmith than a soundmaster.

With this preface let me come to the subject of my talk on "Indian Democracy and Universal Adult Franchise."

There was a brief encounter between me and Prof. Belliappa with regard to the subject of this evening's talk. This being an election month, Professor's natural choice was "Election '99."

I thought, it was rather too unwieldy a subject for me to handle, unidimensional and multi-dimensional. And in any case, all of you being exposed to newspapers and TV, much of what I would say on this would be a repetition.

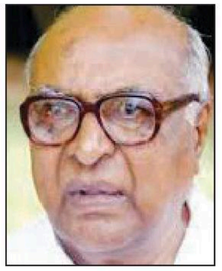
Hence, I suggested the present subject because it is more focussed and touches on the fundamentals of our polity. I thank Prof. Belliappa for his indulgence.

The Mystery of Indian Democracy

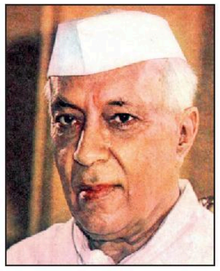
Democracy means rule by the people and democracy is measured by the measure of freedom its humblest citizens enjoy. By this definition Indian democracy should be considered by far the best. The humblest citizen here has freedom to remain illiterate, poor and in a state of nature.

Look at those in the tribal and rural areas of Bihar, UP and other parts of our country including Karnataka. According to political philosophy, that Government is the best which governs the least. Surely ours is the best Government because we have the least governance. There is no sarcasm in what I say. The Indian truth sounds that way. It is said that the people do not know what they want and, therefore, it is the duty of the government to give the people what they need. This is the reason why I would like to discuss here today not the history of Indian democracy but the mystery of Indian democracy.

In ancient Rome, the candidate contesting for the Senate paid close attention to his statements and actions that would make voters see him favourably. Therefore, in the ancient Rome, candidates wore pure white togas like our own Congressmen in the days of Nehru and Lal Bahadur Shastri. The Latin word candidatus means 'clothed in white' to indicate that they were pure, clean and above any 'dirty work.' However, it is interesting to note that such a toga was not worn after election; just like our Congressmen.



Prof. C.D. Narasimhaiah



Jawaharlal Nehru

Now the Indian democracy has to stand and survive on the strength of this kind of candidates who will represent them in the Council, Legislature or Parliament, the law-making bodies. It has been going on for the last 50 years and yet India has survived as a democracy, no matter intellectuals call it a functioning anarchy. This is the mystery of our Democracy.

The intellectuals could as well be right in wondering why India is still a democracy. Honestly, India virtually has everything inimical to its survival as a democratic country — like poverty, strong sub-national identities in the form of religion, caste, language, region and ethnic groups. Add to this the large income disparities, weak industrial base and rural poverty. Therefore, if democracy is surviving in our country despite this severely adverse conditions what else is it but an Indian mystery? People are incapable of throwing up either a revolution or a dictatorship. Why? That again is the mystery.

Mr. Jayaprakash Narayan (JP) not only spoke of a 'Total Revolution' but also strived hard to bring about one by Gandhian methods. But no revolution can ever take place without 'blood and iron.' Sacrifice. And naturally JP failed or rather people failed him. People who were not ready to sacrifice like their earlier generation who fought for freedom under different leaders including Mahatma Gandhi. Therefore, only an evolution is possible. But then an evolution takes a very long time to give results. Probably India is going through this phase of evolution. And, of course, Indians, of whom a majority are Hindus, 85 percent of them, have patience and tolerance in much abundance that it is found nowhere in the world. That is another mystery of Indian democracy.

It is indeed fortuitous and lucky for India, that despite the failure to provide a stable government in the last decade or so, the democratic institutions like the Parliament, Executive, Judiciary, the Press and importantly the Election Commission have functioned well, no matter a bit noisy. And no serious contender for power, either from among the political parties or individuals (of Indian or foreign origin), has questioned the democratic rules of the game which all of them might have moulded, twisted or circumvented.

Indira Gandhi

Narendra Modi

Consider this very important fact of our democracy. The voter turn-out rates are well above those in the world's undisputed democracy, the United States. This I call the mystery of Indian democracy.

Having said this, I would like to briefly mention the possible reason for the success of democracy in India. One reason that comes to my mind is the operation of the system of checks and balances which is in-built in our social system rather than in our political system. We must remember that this is happening in a country steeped in superstition and feudal loyalty. Deeply religious people follow social and religious customs with great reverence. If it is the laws that contribute more to the maintenance of the democratic republic in western countries, in India it is the customs that contribute more than the laws to maintain democracy. For further explanation, we must go to the realm of sociology.

Another reason that may have helped democracy to survive in our country, according to some intellectuals, believe it or not, is the caste system. Since this in itself is a vast subject of study for researchers, I shall not venture to develop on it. I just thought, since everybody is talking ill of the role played by castes in politics, while practicing it in private, I may draw your attention to this reality. You may mull over it and sleep in peace. This is also another mystery of Indian Democracy.

Yet another mystery of Indian democracy is that it accepted a single political party to rule the country for as long a period as 45 years of its 52 years of independence, despite the party being unable to alleviate poverty, eradicate illiteracy and improve the general well-being of the voters.

I am talking about the Congress party. One scholar has said that the Congress since mid 70s has survived not as an effective political organisation but as a forum of personal control by its leader. It was Indira Gandhi during 70s and since 1998 it is Sonia Gandhi who is at present our Prime Minister-in-waiting. This is yet another mystery of Indian democracy.

Indian democracy owes much to giants like Goplakrishna Gokhale, Bal Gangadhar Tilak and Mahatma Gandhi rather than to our Maharajas. But paradoxically the Congress party today has more Maharajas in its galaxy of leaders than any political party. Democracy's life blood is political parties. But Congress is the oldest and the only visible political party. Where are others? That is the mystery of Indian democracy.

> "In ancient Rome, the candidate contesting for the Senate paid close attention to his statements and actions that would make voters see him favourably. Therefore, in the ancient Rome, candidates wore pure white togas like our own Congressmen in the days of Nehru and Lal Bahadur Shastri. The Latin word candidatus means 'clothed in white' to indicate that they were pure, clean and above any 'dirty work.' However, it is interesting to note that such a toga was not worn after election; just like our Congressmen."

Consider this fact of history. At the time of the British rule India had 554 Rajas and Maharajas, Nizams and Nawabs, and they were subservient to the British. If all these 554 had come together with an understanding that each one of them would respect the sovereignty and boundary of their respective kingdoms, they could have easily driven away the British.

Apparently they could not come together because of the ingenious British diplomacy of which the policy of 'divide and rule' is well-known. But the same Maharajas and Nawabs came together after Independence and formed what was known as a 'concord of princes' to fight the abolition of privy purse. It is therefore obvious that these Indian princes were only interested in themselves and not in the country's freedom or its democracy. Yet our political parties are pampering them.

Even today in the Congress party we find largest number of Rajas and Maharajas than in any other political party of our country. People of India, used to feudal loyalty, are supporting this party making it the single largest party in terms of vote share. This is another mystery of Indian democracy.

I am afraid I have spoken for too long and exceeded the time granted to me, but before I conclude I must also speak about the Universal Adult Franchise which is the second part of the subject of my talk.

Our Constitution speaks of our democracy based on adult suffrage subject, of course, to the Representation of People's Act 1950. In the Constituent Assembly where it was discussed, a large number of members spoke against universal adult franchise suggesting restricted franchise like in the West in the early days of democracy. In America women were allowed to vote 80 years after independence!

It was Nehru, who vehemently opposed the suggestion and insisted on the universal adult franchise. While this decision, in a way, helped create political awareness amongst our illiterate and poverty-stricken brothers and sisters of tribal and backward classes, it also helped throw up unprincipled, unscrupulous leaders like Lalu Prasad Yadav, Mulayam Singh Yadav, late Kalpanath Rai, Mayawati, Sukh Ram, Phoolandevi etc.

Now the question arises what are our educated, intellectual class of people doing to keep these unscrupulous leaders at bay? You want the answer? It is said if you can't beat the opponent, join him. And that's what most of our educated intellectuals are doing. Otherwise, why should, of all persons, T.N. Seshan and Dr. Karan Singh enter electoral politics at this stage of their life and join, of all political parties, the Congress?

Similarly we have the example of the sacked Naval Chief canvassing for Congress candidates and the former SC Judge Ramaswamy, who was to be impeached by the Parliament for corruption, contesting as Al-ADMK party's candidate and many others. These intellectuals are contesting the election either to settle personal scores or to take revenge.

No wonder Mr. Nani Palkhiwala defined an intellectual as one who knows which side of the bread is buttered. Looking at this kind of educated and intellectual people, I feel Nehru was perfectly right and justified in advocating universal adult franchise. For, after all as far as the negative qualities are concerned, in India, there is hardly any difference between an illiterate poor Indian and an educated rich Indian. This is yet another mystery of Indian democracy.

Thank You!

After some time, on 4th May, 2001, I received a letter from The Literary Criterion Centre, Dhvanyaloka, signed by Prof. C.D. Narasimhaiah saying that he had (now) decided to publish the papers as they would "stimulate further thinking on the subject though I fear we are not a nation of readers. But that shouldn't inhibit us."

Then he humbled himself and made a request: "Could you very kindly give a good second look to your paper and send me the clear text for the press?"

I do not know if I sent the text at all as there is no reference paper in the archival file.

CM, Dy.CM pay last respects to MP Sreenivasa Prasad

Mysuru, Apr. 30 (MK&DM)- Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar, who is also the Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) President, paid their last respects to Chamarajanagar BJP MP V. Sreenivasa Prasad, who passed away in the wee hours of Monday. The two leaders came together and paid their last respects to the departed leader whose mortal remains were kept at NTM Government School premises in Ashokapuram yesterday evening.

Speaking to press persons, Siddaramaiah said, he was in deep sorrow over the death of Prasad, who was his long-time associate. "Both I and Prasad are of the same age. Prasad was known for his straightforwardness and he always fought for ending social inequality and rendering social justice," the CM said.

Recalling his long association with Prasad, Siddaramaiah said Prasad always stood by his principles and ideologies. Noting that Prasad served as a Union Minister and as a Minister in the Congress Government led by him, the CM said that winning and losing are very much part of politics.

"Prasad had only recently retired from electoral politics after 50 years in politics. He was a great admirer and follower of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar. I had met him at his Jayalakshmipuram residence here a fortnight ago on Apr. 13 and had enquired about his health. During the talks, we two reminisced our long association in politics. His memory power was very good and we enjoyed recalling the days of our association," he said adding that he had visited a few days ago the Hospital at Bengaluru where Prasad was undergoing treatment. His departure is an irreparable loss to the State, he added.

Deputy CM D.K. Shivakumar said, he was deeply pained by the demise of Sreenivasa Prasad, who was an honest leader.

Stating that he and Prasad shared a good relationship no matter in which party he (Prasad) was, Shivakumar recalled that how Prasad, who was the State Youth Congress President in 1985, had backed him to the hilt in getting a Congress party ticket to him in the 1985 Assembly polls.

Pointing out that Prasad contested on a Congress ticket in his 5-decades-long political career, barring a couple of times, Shivakumar reiterated how Prasad had stood solidly behind him all the times.

"Prasad had also fought for ensuring that I was inducted into the Cabinet. Prasad never let down any leader who reposed faith in him," he said while recalling how he and A.H. Vishwanath, who were Youth Congress Secretaries when Prasad was the President, were encouraged by Prasad.

Noting that Prasad was another name of friendship, Shivakumar said, he and Prasad maintained a cordial relationship. "I had a long conversation with him over phone a few days ago," he said and recalled how Prasad used to jump into struggles for just causes.

Earlier, CM Siddaramaiah arrived at Mysore Airport in Mandakalli by a special flight from Ballari late evening yesterday and drove straight to the venue where Prasad's mortal remains were kept.

Both the CM and the Dy.CM left Mysuru yesterday night.

Prasad made a mark in politics on his own: RSS leader, friend M. Venkatram

M. Venkatram

Mysuru, Apr. 30 (SBD&BS)- Senior Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) leader M. Venkatram has described his childhood friend, BJP MP and former Union, Minister V. Sreenivasa Prasad, who passed away on Monday, as a leader who came up in politics on his own with his penchant to spearhead the movements.

"We share the same birth year (1947) and grew up together and joined RSS in the year 1958. We studied in NTM School and later founded a youth association in Ashokapuram which was a Congress stronghold then," recalled Venkatram.

Continuing, Venkatram said: "Even though many opposed our youth association there were 50 to 60 youngsters and were distributing uniform, books to the poor children and also arranged home tuition besides providing them education and teaching patriotic songs to them through RSS. NTM School in Ashokapuram where the mortal remains of Prasad has been kept, was the hub of our activities, that also had a shakha (branch) of RSS."

When B. Basavalingappa was sacked from the Ministry we had staged a protest with Prasad leading the Boosa Movement. Basavalingappa was also invited and taken out in a procession, said Venkatram.

Prasad was a votary of harmony, the key social quality propagated by RSS.

He later plunged into politics during the by-election and came up in life on his own, added Venkatram.

Mourning: Govt. declares holiday in two districts

Mysuru, Apr. 30- Following the death of Chamarajanagar BJP MP V. Sreenivasa Prasad on Monday, the Government has declared a public holiday today (Apr. 30) in Mysuru and Chamarajanagar districts.

In a notification issued on Apr. 29, H.B. Vijaykumar, Under-Secretary to the Government, said that the Government mourns the death of Chamarajanagar MP Sreenivasa Prasad, who was also a former Union and Karnataka Minister and a public holiday has been declared in the two districts on Apr. 30 (barring pre-scheduled exams) as a mark of honour to the departed MP.

Accordingly, all Government and other public offices and educational institutions will remain closed in Mysuru and Chamarajanagar, the notification said.

A great loss to community: Home Minister Dr. Parameshwar

Mysuru, Apr. 30 (PM&BS)- Home Minister Dr. G. Parameshwar has said, "Dalit community is in pain over losing MP and former Union Minister V. Sreenivasa Prasad following his death."

He was speaking to media persons after paying his last respects to the mortal remains of Prasad at NTM School premises, in Ashokapuram here on Monday.

"The death of Prasad has caused severe pain to us and I pray God to give peace to his soul and strength to his family members to bear the loss of his death," said Dr. Parameshwar.

Prasad was a role model for us in public life and emerged as a voice of Dalits by spearheading several movements, safeguarding the interest of the community in the State. It is still etched in my memory how he had announced to quit as a Union Minister in the interest of his community, during Badanavalu clash, added Dr. Parameshwar.

Late MP enjoyed a large following: State BJP Chief Vijayendra

Mysuru, Apr. 30 (PM&BS)- State BJP President B.Y. Vijayendra has said: "The death of BJP MP and former Union Minister V. Sreenivasa Prasad, who enjoyed a large following in his 50-year-long political career, was not just a loss to the party, but to the whole State."

He was speaking to media persons after paying his last respects to the mortal remains of Prasad at NTM School premises in Ashokapuram here on Monday.

"As a seasoned politician, Prasad has made several contributions to the land and the country as an MP of Chamarajanagar Lok Sabha Constituency and Union Minister. We are deeply moved over the death of a veteran leader like Prasad," said Vijayendra.

"Prasad had a great respect for my father B.S. Yediyurappa, the former Chief Minister. Whenever I toured this part of the State, I used to call on him who was also treating me with love and affection. He was also discussing about political situation in old Mysuru region and gave his suggestions. Such an experienced politician is not amidst us now," said Vijayendra.

Judges and advocates are like two wheels of a chariot: High Court Judge M.G. Uma

Mysuru, Apr. 30 (PM&TRR)- "Judges and advocates are the two wheels of chariot called Justice. The chariot of justice can move smoothly only when these two discharge their duties with due diligence and in an efficient manner. It is the responsibility of Judges and advocates to deliver justice," opined Karnataka High Court Judge M.G. Uma.

She was speaking after inaugurating the anniversary celebrations of Mysore Bar Association organised on the eve of summer vacation for Civil Courts at the Association premises on Apr. 27. A music programme was also organised on the occasion.

Observing that only a very few cases will reach High Court and Supreme Court, the Judge said that this is because more than 75% of clients have no resources to fight their cases in higher courts. "Hence, the Judges and advocates of Taluk and District Courts must discharge their duties with due diligence and provide justice," she added.

"The strong foundation (collecting of strong evidence) laid by the advocates to strengthen their case at the Trial Courts (taluk and district courts) cannot be changed even if the case reaches High Court and Supreme Courts. The case may take curious turns due to intelligence of the advocates or if some matter which are not brought to the notice of lower Courts are brought to the notice of higher Courts, judgement may change. Apart from these, the foundation laid to strengthen the case at lower Courts with facts and strong evidence will not change. Hence, the role of judges and advocates who work in lower Courts are very crucial," said Judge Uma.

Continuing, she said that for clients, the judge of Trial Courts are like Supreme Court Judges as they first come to them seeking justice. Judges and advocates must bear this in mind and discharge their duties with utmost responsibility and with cohesion. Then only, you will feel a sense of fulfilment for working in the judicial system," she said.

The Judge concluded her speech by recalling her tenure as an Additional District and Sessions Judge from 2008 to 2011 before being transferred to Ballari as the Principal District & Sessions Judge and said that her experience as a Judge in Mysuru has given her the confidence to discharge her duties anywhere.

Later, advocates K.M. Anand, K.V. Vasu Abhilasha and others presented light music and film songs. Mysuru Principal and Sessions Judge Prabhavati Hiremath, State Bar Council Member B.R. Chandramouli, Mysore Bar Association President S. Lokesh, Secretary A.G. Sudheer, Vice-President M.V. Chandrashekar, 'Law Guide' Chief Editor H.N. Venkatesh and others were present.

Combating hypertension, diabetes

Research vital to identify optimal treatment system: Dr. S.P. Yoganna

Suyog Hospital Chairman Dr. S.P Yoganna lighting the lamp to inaugurate CME programme in city recently as Hospital Managing Director Dr. Suyog Yoganna and Speakers Dr. Abhishek and Dr. Abhilash look on.

Mysuru, Apr. 30 (SBD&TRR)- Dr. S.P. Yoganna, Chairman of Suyog Hospital in city, emphasised the importance of adopting modern medical practices to effectively manage health conditions such as hypertension (BP) and diabetes. He was speaking after inaugurating the Continuing Medical Education (CME) programme for rural doctors on management of BP and diabetes organised by Suyog Hospital at a private hotel in city recently.

Dr. Yoganna highlighted the global increase in the prevalence of BP and diabetes, underscoring the need for continuous research to identify optimal treatment methods. He stressed the significance of creating awareness among healthcare professionals, especially those practising in rural areas, regarding the latest advancements in treating patients with BP and diabetes.

He cautioned against being misled by advertisements claiming complete cures for diabetes, underscoring the importance of doctors educating patients about managing these conditions through lifestyle changes.

He stressed that while both BP and diabetes can be controlled, they cannot be completely cured at present. He urged doctors to communicate this scientific truth to their patients.

Dr. Abhishek, Physician and Diabetologist of Suyog Hospital, stressed the necessity for doctors to be aware of the potential side effects of medications on vital organs such as brain, heart, kidneys and blood vessels. He advised conducting appropriate tests to assess these risks before proceeding with treatment.

Dr. Abhilash, Physician & Diabetologist of Suyog Hospital, underscored the severe consequences of uncontrolled diabetes, which can damage multiple organs and lead to serious health issues like stroke, heart attack, kidney failure and gangrene.

Over 150 doctors from rural areas participated. Hospital Deputy Medical Superintendent Dr. Yogesh and Chief Manager Arun Kumar were present.

'Swaananda Seva Ratna' Award conferred on Sridhar Dixit

Mysuru, Apr. 30 (SPN&TRR)- "It is essential to follow the ideals of Mahatma Gandhi and the youths must evolve their careers under the guiding principles of non-violence," said President of Mysuru District Kannada Sahitya Parishat Maddikere Gopal.

He was speaking at a programme, jointly organised by Swaananda Yogashaala & Wellness Centre and Sri Vasudeva Maharaj Foundation, as part of the 51st Aradhana Mahotsav of Sadguru Sri Shidhara Swamy, at Swaananda Yogashaala premises recently. He also conferred 'Swaananda Seva Ratna' Award on cultural thinker N. Sridhar Dixit on the occasion.

"Recently, Russia bombed a child care centre in Ukraine during its war with that country killing scores of children, which was condemned by United Nations and other countries. In their criticism, they had recalled the freedom struggle of non-violence preached and practiced by Mahatma Gandhi. The ideals of non-violence are relevant for the present world. Had Gandhi been alive today, he would have led a movement of non-violence and tried to stop the war between the nations. War will not benefit any country. War, which should have been the last choice, is becoming the first choice of the nations," he regretted.

Stating that India, which has strong roots of spiritualism and yoga, has been recognised as a world leader (Vishwa Guru) across the globe, he said that everyone must learn and practice yoga. Then only, we can free our society from hatred and jealousy. "It is laudable that the 'Swaananda Seva Ratna' Award is being conferred on Sridhar Dixit," concluded Gopal.

Senior writer Dr. K. Leela Prakash, Brahmin leader K. Raghuram Vajpayee, Swaananda Yogashala President Poornima Sandeep, Trustee Uma Parthnath, Congress leader N.M. Naveen Kumar, Wellness Expert Dr. Nandini Murthy, Himalaya Pratishtana President N. Ananth, Sri Vasudeva Maharaj Foundation President M.V. Nagendra Babu, social activist Rakesh Bhat and others were present.

WORD OF THE DAY

Tendentious

Pronunciation: ten-DEN-shus.
Meaning: Tendentious is a formal word used disapprovingly to describe someone or something expressing a strongly biased point of view in a way that may cause argument.
Origin: Tendentious is one of several words English speakers can choose when they want to suggest that someone has made up their mind in advance. You may be partial to predisposed or prone to favour partisan, but whatever your leanings, we're inclined to think you'll benefit from adding tendentious to your repertoire. Tendentious is a relatively recent arrival to English, considering its Latin roots. In the latter half of the 19th century, English users took the Latinate stem tendenti- (from tendentia, meaning "tendency") and combined it with the familiar adjective suffix -ious to form a word describing someone with a tendency to favour a particular point of view, motivated by an intent to promote a particular cause.
Example: "Polls can have their own politics & media polls are often accused of being tendentious." —Joseph Epstein, The Wall Street Journal, 26 Oct. 2021

THE ODD WORD

Taphephobia

Fear of being buried alive.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

The best of both worlds

Meaning: 'The Best of Both Worlds' to describe a situation in which you can enjoy the benefits of two different opportunities.
Origin: The origin of the expression 'the best of both worlds' isn't really known. It became popular in the latter half of the 20th century.
Example: "Not only does Don have the freedom a student enjoys, his fellowship at the University means he also gets paid. It really is the best of both worlds."
